

Edwin Giltay <edwingiltay@gmail.com>

Obligation to hand over evidence as part of the chapter 7 resolution

1 bericht

Edwin Giltay <edwingiltay@gmail.com>

24 september 2017 om 22:20

Aan: sutalo@un.org

Cc: [REDACTED], [REDACTED], [REDACTED], [REDACTED]

Dear Mrs. Angelina Sutalo, could you please forward this e-mail to the ICTY prosecutor?

Dear ICTY prosecutor,

May I introduce myself: Edwin Giltay, author of the Dutch book De doofpotgeneraal – in English: The Cover-up General. This nonfiction thriller recounts an espionage scandal I happened to witness, related to the disappearance of footage depicting war crimes in Srebrenica.

One year after publication – while already sold out – The Cover-up General was banned. A Dutch court prohibited reprinting, distributing and even promoting the book. Fortunately, the censorship verdict was overturned last year by the Appeals Court in The Hague. Three of its chief judges studied the book and ruled its accuracy is not in doubt. The Cover-up General was relaunched on the Dutch market, receiving 4 and 5 star reviews and numerous recommendations. Up till now, over 150 articles about the book appeared in media throughout a dozen countries.

On September 14th, 2017, Dutch Parliamentarians ordered the Minister of Defence to provide answers and clarify the Srebrenica intelligence affair I describe in my book. An item aired on primetime national TV about this unanimous decision of the Parliamentary Defence Committee can be found here: www.hartvannederland.nl/nieuws/2017/klokkenluider-giltay-vecht-voor-eerherstel/

I am not the only person in the Netherlands airing my concerns about the cover-up by Dutch military intelligence of evidence of war crimes. Attorney Michael Ruperti represents over two hundred Dutchbat veterans currently suing the Dutch State. One of their demands: they want their photos back!

ThePostOnline published an article on this trial on November 28th, 2016. The title of this article translates as: 'A lot more photo rolls from Srebrenica in the archives of Dutch Military Intelligence and Security Service'. See: <http://nieuws.tpo.nl/2016/11/28/nog-meer-fotorolletjes-srebrenica-archieef-mivd/>

Earlier today, I visited the open-door day at the ICTY and took my chance to ask your colleagues some questions in the press briefing room and courtroom. I was shocked to learn that no-one I spoke to, knew anything about the court case of the 200 Dutchbat veterans. How is this possible?

During the introduction of Chef de cabinet Mrs. Rodriques Pineda about the work of the ICTY Chambers, she talked about the obligation of countries to grant access to evidence as part of the Chapter 7 Resolution of the United Nations. When I asked her whether my government handed over the hidden photo rolls, she answered that would indeed be the case. However, I wonder how this is possible as the Dutch government officially still denies their existence.

Could you please clarify this matter? According to Michael Ruperti, at least 8 photo rolls were taken from Dutchbat soldiers and are now behind lock and key in military intelligence archives in the Netherlands. Did the ICTY prosecution demand access to all this photo evidence of Srebrenica?

I look forward to hearing from you.

With most kind regards,

Edwin Giltay, writer

www.thecoverupgeneral.com